

DONORS:

Washington Falconers' Association, Catherine Futtrup, Clifford and Janna Kellogg, Gregory S. Toffic, Linda Moneymaker, Rebecca Barker, Gretchen Albrecht, Harmony Frazier, Phil and Lori Smith

The falconry community suffered a great loss with the passing of longtime falconer, former NAFA North Pacific Director and respected zookeeper at Seattle's Woodland Park Zoo, Walter English.

Wally contributed greatly to not only NAFA but also Woodland Park Zoo's conservation mission as a highly respected professional zookeeper. He was proud to assist the zoo in its 1971 eagle release program. In 1988, he co-authored a scientific paper on the breeding and management of the Common Trumpeter Swan, a species which had been difficult to breed in captivity. As recently as 2007, he was enthusiastically involved and led zoo's endangered turtles release program in their Western Pond Turtle Recovery Project. The Woodland Park Zoo mourned his passing by noting that Walter English dedicated his life to helping visitors and professionals protect the earth's wonderful diversity of life.

Walter English dedicated his life to helping visitors and professionals protect the earth's wonderful diversity of life.

Walter and the many different types of Falcons he flew through the years.

